

IBM Innovation Center helps Vanda to build and optimize their Vanda Housing Fund System application

Founded in 1982, Vanda Group (Vanda) is a premier IT solutions provider in Asia that specializes in systems infrastructure and application solutions services. Vanda is a market leader in mainland China in the provision of systems integration and software applications services in the banking and finance sector. Now it is focused on accelerating growth of its IT solutions and services in Greater China. Vanda has very close relationship with IBM®, and is qualified as “IBM Golden Partner – Solutions Provider” and “IBM Silver Partner – Training Centre of Tivoli Products and Softwares” in China.

Facing the new development and requirements of housing fund management in mainland China, Vanda developed their Housing Fund Solution to achieve the principals of “centralized decision-making, management, operation and auditing”. It is a fundamental blend of industry-leading housing fund processing, audit, and accounting workflow solutions. The solution is combined with IBM middleware: WebSphere® Application Server, DB2® Enterprise, CICS® and IBM System p® and storage technologies. The IBM Innovation Center assigned a dedicated Technology Manager to provide timely and long term technical consultation and support to Vanda. The IBM team worked closely with Vanda, with the cooperation including solution architect consultation, new technology introduction, product training and support, solution performance testing and optimization.

To validate and improve the Housing Fund Solution’s performance, Vanda development team came to IBM Innovation Center in Shanghai to carry out comprehensive testing. The Center’s IT consultants helped them set up the required test environment, eliminate problems and analyze and improve performance. As the result of the testing, Vanda verified that its solution can be successfully deployed and runs on AIX and Linux operating systems, and tested successfully with 500 concurrent users. These results will help the solution promotion in the future. The solution has been successfully deployed in many customers in China such as the ChangChun Housing Fund Center and WuHan Housing Fund Center.

Mr. Yu Chuan Bo, the GM of Vanda Housing Fund Services Department is very satisfied with the cooperation between Vanda and the IBM Innovation Center. He commented “Over the years, the IBM Innovation Center has provided long term, multi-trend support to Vanda, help us to customize our solution and develop the new application. I believe that our cooperation will help Vanda achieve more in Housing Fund System application, information integration and other fields.”
