Skills are critical to success in the IT profession. And investing in your team's skills builds morale, increases productivity and delivers top performance.

IBM Training's Education Pack - online account offers a great way to commit to your IT staff's skill building by offering tiered discounts for prepaid packages and allows you to protect your annual training budget. Your online account functions as an electronic debit account that can be used by anyone in your organization on any training venue offered by IBM Training. It also enables you to track your training expenditures and is valid for 12 months from the date of activation.

Special Savings Offer

For the first time ever, IBM is extending the IBM Education Pack discount to 15% when you invest $25,000 or more by October 16, 2009.

Build your knowledge and let your technical talents shine through when you receive power-packed, in-depth training and experience real-world best practices from the experts! IBM Lotus® Software Services experts will be visiting cities worldwide to give you information about hot topics in the marketplace.
